Hey Catherine!

Thanks so much for your quick reply about this job. Of course, time in Montreal with your parents sounds hugely important! I hope we can do the next fun job together one day soon. For now, I wish you a great trip and really nice quality time back home. Don't worry about this, there will be many more for us. Thanks again for everything - I'm in New York with Jake and Charles right now by the way, and we talk about you all the time and how much of a truly great collaboration we all had with you. They are so totally blown away by your eye and your talent and taste, and your devotion to the project. We all felt like we had a real ally in you, someone who cared so intrinsically and authentically about what we were making together. Thank you from the bottom of my heart!!

Maya

Maya,

I'm heading to Montreal on Sunday to take care of my parents and their doc appointments. I usually try to book them in a bunch while I'm there so that they have someone with them.

I'm really not sure if I'll be done by the weekend, I'd know closer to the date; I really wasn't sure what to do but as I don't want to hold your PM up - I told hm best to treat as not available.

Unfortunate timing but hard to re-book MRI's etc.

Hope to see you/work with you soon.

Catherine
