

The Video Lab Staff Profile: Catherine Pantazopoulos

Internationally renowned colourist "guru", Catherine Pantazopoulos, has decided to settle in South Africa, working as part of The Video Lab Johannesburg team. Canadian born Catherine, has spent a substantial part of her career in the international post-production environment and has an in-depth understanding of the industry. Catherine's move is not only a coup for The Video Lab but for the local industry as a whole, as she will be sharing her knowledge and expertise through a series of lectures at AFDA.

Catherine is no stranger to The Video Lab, where she did a stint of training and consulting in 2001. She has worked all around the world, including; New York (where she consulted at Post Perfect and assisted Steve Hendricks to set up CCA), Beijing China (here she did some demo work for the InterBee Broadcast show, this included spirit, shadow, workflows and training), as well as at Shooters Post in Philadelphia (which saw her being involved in the AAF conference for Metadata standards and industry input). It was here that she also did researching and training for the Digital Intermediate processes in all major facilities, workflows and new equipment.

We are extremely pleased that Catherine has made the move to South Africa and we are looking forward to learning an immense amount from her. It is incredible that we have managed to attract someone of her calibre to work with us over an extended period of time like this.
